

General Information

FoxAcre Press is a new small-press publisher, established with the goal of bringing good books back into print. We are focusing initially on three areas of publishing: reissues of the best of science fiction and fantasy, how-to books on writing and publishing, and general interest non-fiction titles.

So far, we have published three titles. We've done two in the how-to category. They are Mother Miller's How to Write Good Book, by Sasha Miller, and A Quick Guide to Book-On-Demand Printing, by Roger MacBride Allen. The Prince of Morning Bells by Nancy Kress is our first fantasy title.

All titles are available through the FoxAcre WebStore at www.foxacre.bigstep.com. at our Titles become available to booksellers through Ingram's ordering system about a month or so after they are available via our WebStore. Via Ingram, they become available through such on-line retailers as AMAZON.COM, BN.COM, BORDERS.COM, etc. Order links to various online sellers for our titles are listed at www.foxacre.com.

Our next two titles will be in science fiction and fantasy: Orphan of Creation by Roger MacBride Allen, and Crosstime Traffic by Lawrence Watt-Evans. Both should be available from www.foxacre.bigstep.com by July 2000, and via the other outlets described above shortly thereafter. Also in the offing are an updated re-issue of the non-fiction title War Games, by Thomas B. Allen, and a new non-fiction title on the 1939 World's Fair Time Capsule. Other fiction and non-fiction titles are in the works. In addition, FoxAcre Press offers certain titles from "author's stock" through its website. Typically, these are fresh copies of out-of-print editions, provided by the author to FoxAcre, and available nowhere else.

At present, FoxAcre Press is actively seeking additional science fiction and fantasy titles for publication. We are only seeking reprint titles. We do not publish new titles in science fiction or fantasy. Please send a query letter if you have a title you wish to submit. Please do not send unsolicited submissions.

Roger MacBride Allen, the publisher of FoxAcre Press, is a noted science fiction writer, with seventeen published novels to his credit.